

I\|/△, the European architecture platform, connects established players in the field of architecture with emerging talent – thinkers and practitioners that have not yet had a chance to leave their mark, but who bring concrete proposals for how architecture has to evolve to fit a regenerative and equitable future for all. △t the first I\|/△ conference, which will take place on 21 → 22 October 2022 at the Faculty of △rchitecture of the University of Ljubljana, speakers and 25 featured I\|/△ fellows will present their work and discuss how architecture will co-create the future of our planet. They will be joined in their discussion by 27 members of the platform, prominent institutions from all over the  EU and beyond.
